Build a better world with books

Summer reading can help kids avoid the dreaded "summer slump" and retain their enthusiasm and reading skills. If parents and other role models join in, that adds to their motivation.

Quick Tips

Bring books and/or audiobooks with you to appointments and on trips.

Let your child see you reading.

Read aloud to your child no matter their age. If they are able to read, then take turns reading to each other.

Choose a day of the week to have a library date with your child.

Try graphic novels and magazines with kids who are reluctant readers.

Most importantly, let your child choose what they want to read.

Granting your child the freedom to read what looks interesting to them helps to foster a positive relationship with reading.

Let us help you!

We have lots of experience with all different types of readers including reluctant readers. Stop by if you need some help getting your child engaged.

We also offer every reading format:
